PROTECT YOUR HOMES AND EMPLOYEES FROM VIRUS AND BACTERIA

Cleaner buildings are healthier buildings. Healthier buildings lead to healthier people and increased productivity. With the focus on health and safety, we need to understand how cleaning and disinfecting help contribute favorably to this goal.

A step beyond cleaning, sanitation kills a greater amount of bacteria and is required for any surface that comes into contact with food. According to the CDC definition, a sanitizer is "a chemical that kills 99.999% of the specific test bacteria in 30 seconds under the conditions of the test.

Therefore, while sanitizers can kill the majority of certain kinds of bacteria, sanitation techniques and products alone cannot eliminate all viruses.

Disinfecting a surface means that chemicals are being used to kill germs. Disinfecting does not necessarily mean that dirt, germs, and impurities are being removed from the surface, but by killing the germs, the risk of spreading infection is lowered.

Quality Statement

The company believes that its market expects a continually improving service. We aim to continually improve the service we provide to meet our clients requirements and to produce finished work that we can justifiably be proud of.

The company aims to achieve the above by implementing a management system that complies with the international standard of good practice BS EN ISO 9001. It also includes a commitment to meet the requirements of our clients, learn from customers feedback, as well as legal and regulatory requirements. Also to continual development of the system and helping to ensure it remains effective.

Only by providing an outstanding service and product quality will we achieve our aims of long term success and sustained improvements.

All personnel within the company are responsible for the quality of their work and maintaining the dictated standards of occupational safety. The company provides training and has established systems to assist all personnel to achieve the standards required by accredited international bodies. While we endeavour to produce work and offer a service that we can be proud of, we have to recognise that we don't always achieve our own standards. When a customer complains, we are committed to investigating the complaint and will do our best to put right all justified complaints.
